What's New In PACE Suite?

Microsoft has announced the end of support for Windows XP on April 8, 2014. Windows XP users are urged to upgrade to a supported version of Windows. Microsoft will continue providing security updates and technical support for Windows XP through April 2014. There are several possible outcomes to the end of support. Microsoft may provide at least one more security update release, dubbed the "Emergency Patch Tuesday", during the last days of support and that Microsoft may push out the final Windows XP patch for Windows XP users on April 8, 2014. According to ZDNet, Microsoft is expected to deliver its final Windows XP patch on April 8, 2014. MSI Suite for Windows XP v2.0.0 is scheduled for release on June 9, 2013 at 08:00 Pacific time. You might wonder how you can work efficiently without a powerful tool for Windows batch scripting. Many people rely on a freeware solution such as MsiExec.exe, but after all, that application is not particularly user-friendly and it has several shortcomings. Here are some of the top reasons why you should definitely consider using a commercial tool such as Windows Installer Script Toolkit. 1. It offers a lot of new features, such as scripting of installation, uninstalling, repair and removals, not to mention the creation of scripts to launch either an installation or a repair operation using an exe file. Many non-commercial users just don't realize the advantages, and even if they do, they do not feel comfortable using a freeware tool. If you work with Windows systems, you will surely appreciate the rich functionality of a Windows Installer Script Toolkit, which can be your one-stop Windows automation solution. 2. Some programmers may be wary of using a commercial tool because they assume that, in doing so, they will not be allowed to redistribute the product. However, with a Windows Installer Script Toolkit, you can redistribute the tool as you like. Most users purchase a license with the toolkit, so they cannot legally redistribute it. However, that does not matter, because the toolkit is free to use, and can be downloaded and used at no cost. 3. Some people prefer to use the command line to create or execute scripts. To tell you the truth, most people prefer to use GUI tools because they are much more user-friendly than the command-line interface (CLI). Plus, you can do so much from a GUI tool, and you can easily navigate to
